That's the CMC - aka Canadian model. Of all of the major models, that animation is the easiest to understand for the layperson. But keep in mind it's just one model. There are dozens. And in the long range, that one is historically less accurate than the GFS and Euro (though the CMC did handle Sandy better than any other model).

You don't become confident about what will happen until they all show basically the same thing. But, through Sunday, they all show pretty much the same thing. so.....
