Maybe we'll see people trying to poach muskies instead of trout from the kiddie pool now. Apparently Rod was back in the area because he mentioned something about it on FB. I dont think they hunted him down in CO :)

I think it's good. I never realized how bad the sediment was until I fished it after the water dropped from the hurricane two years back. The stream bottom was so clean and rocky. Now it's built up again with sediment.

How fast does the water clear up/settle after a dam removal is completed? Is it days, weeks, months?
