
Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : Right place at the right time...

Right place at the right time...

Author: : semperfish

Date: : 2013/5/10 5:03:38

URL:

I was dinkin' around in a local creek, casting poppers to sunnies the other afternoon. Poppers kept sinking (I think my fluoro leader was actually dragging them under). I'm stripping the popper back in and WHAM....fish on! Where there's one schoolie, there's usually more so I went to a white Zonker with an indicator at +24" and it was Game On! Casting dead across or quartering down with quick 6" strips seemed to be the ticket. Lost count in the 1 hour flurry but I landed at least 14. All 8-9" schoolies. Lotta fun!

Attach file:

 050613.jpg (89.27 KB)

