A few decades ago we weren't seeing these problems with the smallmouth. Now we are.

What changed?

They don't tackle that in the article.

Dear troutbert,

Figuring things out is easy.

High volume high production farming, both crop and livestock, and 200,000 + acres of cement, clay, and glass replacing 200,000 + acres of woodlots and small scale farm fields.

It was good while it lasted.
