It's not over yet. Central PA should get out of the rain sometime later today or tonight. Then it's over, till at least probably Wednesday/Thursday. What Wed. and Thurs look like is still a little questionable, but the trend is towards less, maybe a scattered t-storm or two.

But for last night's round one, FWIW, here are the rainfall totals. Looks like the J got it a little worse than the others. Not as much rain as originally forecast, we'll see what it looks like later today.
