Dear Board,

If the goal is to return to your roots why not build a weir and have local tribesmen trample the fish into it, like they did in the old days?

Four hundred years ago people fished because they were hungry.

Maybe I'm just a contrary old fart but it never ceases to amuse me when I see people proclaiming that there is a greater connection to an activity when it is done the old way?

You either have the connection or you don't. It cannot be manufactured or sold, no matter what the ads and videos may tell you.

Regards,

Tim Murphy 😊
