Looks like you guys had nice outings.

Fishingnoob, a few words of advice. There is no substitute for time on the water practicing on fishing dries, this advice works for any new method of fishing. A good way to do this is by leaving the nymphs and streamers at home so you focus on getting better fishing dries (bring a few small nymphs for dry/dropper rig but don't fish them anyother way). One thing I did to get better at dry fly fishing was to fish for blue gills with a dry fly. Blue gills will rise to a dry fly and can be very discriminating at times.
