Just a heads-up that the tidal rapids known as Trenton Falls at the head of tide on the Delaware Estuary continues to be concentrating large numbers of stripers ranging from 14-34 inches. Because they are tidal, the rapids are ripping at low tide and relatively calm in places at high tide. Electrofished and tagged stripers there yesterday...captured about eighty in 3000 seconds of electrofishing time. About two thirds were 16-24 inches. Most of the rest ranged up to 34 inches. Numbers will greatly decline by Memorial Day.
