While playing with my dog down at the pond, a bald eagle swooped down. It looked like he was either after the dog, or after the stick that I just threw in there for the dog to retrieve. The eagle then landed on a nearby tree. I then walked away from the pond and the eagle came back and took a fish.

They do seem to like my pond.

Here is a different time, and I think he has a muskrat.

Now if I could only attract one of those gopher eating blue herons.
