You can catch more by dragging yur parachute, just don't get caught. Only those from Bragg get away with it.
HA HA!

Even setting up your own gear needs to be checked often. Lines rubbing on rocks, knots getting loose around the fly, are both succesful at helping someone lose fish.

Also gear degrades over time. I had a bass top water popper that the same bass nailed 3 times and each time I went to set the hook it never connected.....that was because there was no hook on it only a shaft.
