I purchased this streamer from a local fly shop, and for whatever reason the owner will not tell me the name of the pattern. Can anyone ID the name of this streamer? It has an really slim profile when wet. If it doesnt have a common name, could someone at least tell me what materials are used? I'm still too new to tying to be able to identify materials, at least these ones. It seems to be synthetic, almost like a tinsel. the "gill plate" seems to be orange hen? saddle. not sure though. if you haven't figured it out, I'm trying to figure out how to tie this fly as it has been very productive for me in warm water, haha.

Very sorry for the cell phone pics..only thing available to me at the moment. Thanks guys
