I going to mention accuracy - it's the issue I see most. When there are bugs all over and the fish are near the surface they don't need to move far and if they are shallow can't see far. Try to get the fly within 6" (+/- 3") of the fish down the feeding lane. To do this you really need to mark the fish well. Closely notice bubble lines, branches, rocks, etc in order to have a good target.
