I hear ya, I think Redington makes a good product for a good price. I have the Drift and the Rise. I might switch up and get a Trion by Pfluger for my next Rod purchase, because of its price point. All though I might just stick with the Surge because I like Redington so much.

I am pretty tough on my reels when I have a chance to fish, both have held up well with no problems. Easy to take apart and clean out the junk that gets in there. Only complaint with the Rise is that it allows your tippet to get wrapped around easily. I don't feel it being too heavy either, but its a 3/4. As long as it feels balanced.
