Check out the many threads on the Delaware in the Reports and Announcements/Events forum (if you haven't already) as there is much discussion of hatches etc.

As for which flies: this will depend on the season as the Delaware has complex hatches but you'll want a pretty good selection of the usual stuff. Some big streamers are always good to have too. There are many public access spots. In Hancock, you can park right there at the RT 191 bridge over the West Branch and wade up or downstream - very good spot.
