There is a guy that I've encountered working at BWO that has no business being behind that counter. I'm betting it is the same guy.

Last time I was there, I hoped to talk a bit about options for the day. He was on the phone (clearly a personal call). He asked the person to hold when he noticed me waiting to speak to him, and when I asked about patterns and places to hit the water, he pointed at the white board on the wall and went back to his call.

Nice, eh?
