So the guy that posted it, did it to prove a point. IMO Kids were camping on his property, having campfires, littering, etc. He threatened to post it. Rails to trails, whoever is responsible for it, said you can't. He said, 'yes I can' and he sure the heck did. Thats the way it was explained to me this winter.

I had met the guy before, a couple years ago, and he seemed nice enough. I know he was trying to sell that land up to a month ago. If he found a buyer thats news to me.

His land only extends a few hundred yards down the trail. Infact, most people look to see if his vehicle is around and just walk through it anyway.

My advice is to stick to the stream. He is not afraid to call the cops as I have heard.
