For what it's worth, this section was dedicated to printed materials up until a couple years ago. I made the suggestion to Dave that it be opened up to more modern media forms and the moderation staff agreed. The spirit and intent was to review digital and printed materials, not necessarily home brewed videos. It is my humble opinion that personal video-grams should be located in other forums. General? Locations? Not quite sure where this fits but again my humble opinion, it would be in a different forum in the future (assuming there will be future installments of Fishing With Sasquatch or whatever).
