since we are on the subject of fly shops and service, I just bought a set of wading boots at orvis plymouth meeting mall. yeah, they sell alot of clothes (and they wouldnt be there if they didnt), but I have had help from people who are in to fishing. I wanted new boots fast since I had been getting blisters, and they had a few good boot models, with each model in stock in several sizes. I got to try the boots on with the waders Ill use them with, and the guy from the store was very helpful and patient as I tried several boots on. new boots are good and no blisters so far.

if I had ordered online without trying things on, the fit would not be nearly as good and it would have just made for delays and returns

I have had some less than great experiences at other shops here and there, but consider myself lucky to have access to the sporting gentleman in media, orvis plymouth meeting, and the evening hatch up by blakeslee,,, fly shop guys can be like the record shop guys in the movie High Fidelity, the line between colorful and cranky can be a thin one....
