Never experienced that Jack because I never have had the chance to grow tired of it. I, like pcray, have had times when I couldn't find the time to go, which I'm going through right now.

But for me, every time I'm out, I feel renewed. And I can't wait until the next time I can get out again. I guess it's because fishing is not just something that I do. It's more like something that I am.
