Now I'm getting really confused ha. What does stocking deep creek have to do with trout in the FFO section above green lane res?? Perkiomen creek enters deep creek lake below the dam where they stock it right??

I was askin if the fishing was better back in the day due to the fact that I thought they used to trout stock the green lane res, which would allow the trout to run up to the fly fishing dam on church rd. if they wanted to. Trout from deep creek would have no way to get back up there, unless they chartered a chopper and flew up the green lane dam right??

Regardless my buddy says he's still doing well at the FFO dam and told me to get my ass over there sometime as he's right in east greenville as well. I'm just over in hereford, so it's hard to pass up solo fishing on the upper perkys to rub elbows at the dam in town. I'd rather hike up the hosensack honestly if I'm drivin into town.
