I wouldn't sweat it too much. The "fly" below will work well, especially for SMBs.

Based on my experience in 2008, it would probably work well on trout too. The only thing is that the foam and deer hair patterns cast better with 5 and 6wt lines and didn't twist up the leader like a popper often can.

The bottom line is that this is not a match the hatch situation, it is a go fishing right now cause you'll have to wait forever to do it again situation. If the cicadas are heavy in your area just get on the water with whatever large floating flies you've got.
