The vise and tool kits from Cabelas are fine to figure out if you like tying. Frankly I know a lot of pretty avid fly fishermen who pretty much hate tying (includes me) and have a ton of money tied up in tools and materials (includes me). Get a cheap Cabelas tool and vise kit for $35 and see if you like it. Get some standard size dry fly hooks, a few nymph hooks, dubbing packs, thread spools in a couple colors, some cdc and have at it. No point in investing tons of money on hackle and what not until you figure out if you like it. The Cabelas kits that have the vise, tools and material are kind of lack luster in the material department imo.
