I can say almost certainly that I will enjoy tying my own flies. I also found a beginner tying class that provides materials but I need my own tools. I would definitely go that route to gain some tying knowledge before I waste money on materials. (I've been in many fly shops and I know how much necks and saddles and whatnot can go for. I've seen that wapsi kit Jeremy and thought it looked decent but not really sure. I've seen some cabelas kits for $50 or less also. I think I'm gunna go for it and buy something cheap for now and slowly upgrade in the future. I think you guys talked me into it. So I'm gunna blame it on you every time the old lady gives me crap for wasting money or time tying flies. Lol thanks
