Not to change the subject of the thread, but why a Scott rod? Did you cast them? There are a lot of good glass rod makers out there, including Kettle Creek Tackle Shop (does not make the blanks). Phil has something like 25 models in stock. And you can cast them all. IMHO, the Scott rods I played around with are WAY too soft for me.

This is just a suggestion, but you may want to look at what's out there before you buy. Cast several before you make a decision.
