The two I got on caddis dries there were around 6:30ish or so. Pretty much the only 2 I saw rising at that time. Didn't fish the hole behind the shop, there were guys in it the entire time I was there. Couldn't get any on streamers or streamers, although I fished dries for the most part. Found a decent brown feeding actively on nymphs down by the lazy hole but I couldn't get him to eat anything. Saw some rises down that way but nothing consistant. The moral of the story, fish after the sun goes down!!lol When I talked to Bob yesterday he said people have been getting some fish on top real early in the mornings too.

I fished the Shenango this afternoon and it was tough, even for bass. No trout, well my brother got one spinfishing. Got a carp though. Gonna try again tomorrow evening or Monday morning, or both for trout. Saw some caddis hatching today so hopefully the trout are still eating them in the mornings and evenings. Also fished Slippery Rock this morning and got one bow. Tough there too.
