

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : Leaky waders

Leaky waders

Author: : Dcap240

Date: : 2013/6/3 22:30:43

URL:

Anybody know a good trick to find a leak in breathable waders? I believe they are some kind of nylon? It's a small leak but after an hour or two my left foot is soaked. I have aqua seal and I tried filling them with water and I found the general area and thought I had it but I don't. They still leak. I'm trying to keep from just covering the whole left leg in aqua seal but it is frustrating. I just bought them this winter too and I'm pretty sure it's not any kind of defect just probably sticker bushes or something. Someone told me to use flex seal (yes the stuff from the info-mercials) and just spray them from the knee down. But I have doubts about using that stuff. I know probably many of you have experience with leaky waders.