Take exactly what skip said, get a scandi style head for it, watch as many youtube videos as you can, get out on the water and practice, practice, practice.

The biggest issue I had to overcome was getting my normal casting hand to stay still and using it as a pivot point only. but when you get that and the basic ways to load the rod it will all start coming together.

And once you figure out how to single spey, snap t, and perry poke you can take all that back to single hand fishing, they all work on single hand rods but instead of loading the rod with the lower grip you will be loading the rod with double hauls.

Names to watch on youtube, andrew mckoy (tightlines fly in nj), and bill lowe has some funnies as well.

Oh and if you're willing to make the trip up to the salmon river in july, there is a spey clave right around july 20th.

Let me get on my big computer vs my phone and ill get you some links.
