

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : Morning Hatch??

Re: Morning Hatch??

Author: : The_Sasquatch

Date: : 2013/6/5 14:03:45

URL:

I've never had an issue with it. Heck, I've gotten lucky sometimes and caught them on the caddis themselves, even when there "isn't" a hatch (caddis are everywhere, it seems, and there are usually some flying around somewhere). I often do this for tricos. If it concerns you though, try a size 18 griffith gnat (a midge that you can actually see) and trail your smaller midge behind it. I often do that when fishing zebra midges.