I usually like to fish that stream when it's up and muddy a bit. I knew the conditions would be pretty much perfect so I had to fish it today. I don't do all that well when it's low and clear.

And nice! There's quite a few fish that size in that stream(as you know). The biggest one, well actually 2, I got today were only about 11in(still nice for a small creek) but I was happy to hook into a good handful of dinks. Always nice to see the smaller fish. Like I said nothing in that hole, but it has produced in the past for me. Wanted to fish the whole stream down to the mouth but I had to be somewhere and didn't make it that far downstream.
