I can't offer any advise for the Lehigh, but in general for streamer fishing I have some ideas. Nothing imitates life, like motion. Articulated streamers have this built into them. I'm not sure they have to be 7" long, but the motion is important. Also just like fishing a stick bait like a tiny torpedo, or a zara spook, you want to move the bait, without m-o-v-l-n-g, the bait. You want to make it look alive, without pulling it away from the fish or its lie. Good Luck and post some pics!
