The new GPS Fishing Guide to Pennsylvania for Android will launch this weekend. I'll post again once it is available. If you already own the app on your Android, it should automatically update to this new version. Be prepared because it will look completely different from the version you are used to seeing.

There is a tutorial that you can look at and follow to learn all the new features at the link below. You may want to preview the tutorial.

This tutorial is formatted for smartphones and is included in the help section of the app. To make it easier to learn, I suggest you open the tutorial on your computer and follow along on your phone. The tutorial takes you step-by-step through the major features.

I will be building a computer version of the tutorial as well but I won't promise it will be available at launch.

It has proven to be a real challenge matching the capabilities of iPhone to the Android but I think I've finally done it.
