

Subject: : Hatch and Entomology Forum

Topic: : Another Mayfly ID

Re: Another Mayfly ID

Author: : pcray1231

Date: : 2013/6/7 16:34:00

URL:

There's different species of hexes, you know. We have at least 3 in PA. limbata, atrocaudata, and bilineata.

Limbata are the largest, most famous, and earliest. But they're so famous because of Wisconsin/Michigan, not PA. I think they are in lesser numbers here, but I think this is a limbata.

The ridiculously massive July hatches on the Allegheny, Ohio, Mon, and bigger tribs I think are bilineata. There might be two separate July hatches, early and late, and if so, the other is atrocaudata.