Great, thanks for the info! Yes I was having a hard time imagining Stony would be too great much after May from the couple of times I was there spin fishing years ago.

I didn't hit up Clarks right away because I've heard it can be low, slow moving, and clear, and tough to fish, and with my beginning skills I just checked out some other areas first. But I'm not far from there and would like to just pull off and try some of the areas along there to at least get the know the area and the water a bit better.
