

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : Fallfish vs creek chub

Re: Fallfish vs creek chub

Author: : Swattie87

Date: : 2013/6/8 12:54:59

URL:

They're different species of minnows. Generally Fallfish are bigger and have a more scaly, shiny, almost metallic silver appearance. Creek Chubs don't grow as large and have a dark stripe down their sides. There's a few different species of Chubs that are hard to tell apart so they all get lumped together in discussion, but Fallfish are easy enough to tell apart.

PFBC Minnow Family

Correct on the mouth being the identifying feature of Suckers.