

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : Juniata, Lewistown Narrows, Rt. 322, access?

Re: Juniata, Lewistown Narrows, Rt. 322, access?

Author: : Sylvaneous

Date: : 2008/8/2 21:55:35

URL:

The ONE time I fished the Juniata, and it was much further down in other narrows, not the Lewistown narrows, I just pulled off onto the berm of the south or east bound lane and scrambled down over the bank. They actually put in a river access area in the new construction Narrows. It wasn't right on any good water. I didn't get to check it out much as I was driving. However, nowhere is terribly far from good water there.

Don't know if berm parking and bank scrambling is allowed in this section. Might be a serious safety hazard.

Most of 322 through that entire region is itself a road hazard.

Syl