Really I hate to do this, because no one will ever be able to truly say for certain. However, this is kinda more of a wild or fingerling kinda thing.

I caught 4 of these rainbows on a local stream. I am sure most of you can figure it out, such most every stream around me was blown. Anyways, there was a rainbow fingerling program on this stream, but was stopped last year. Did these fish just not grow in over a year or was there possibly a wild rainbow spawning taking place?

Mike, watcha think? What are the growing rates of rainbow fingerlings over a year?
