

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : Fallfish vs creek chub

Re: Fallfish vs creek chub

Author: : lestrout

Date: : 2013/6/9 12:52:25

URL:

Fallfish are native in the Brandywine and sometimes jump. Although hatchery trouts lately are better colored and fight better (they've improved the Trout Chow), at times at first it was hard to tell if you had a fallfish or trout on. But like crappie, after the initial tussle, fallfish tend to come in easier and don't have the second wind trouts do. I find hooking fallfish on dries requires a bit of a pause to let them turn the fly in the mouth (or something), much like the whitefish in the Rockies.

tl
les