If it was Pohopoco, the stream receives fingerling RT stockings (adipose clipped) and they may have just been stocked. The body color of the fish and the rather bland color of the fins suggested to me that it was a recent stocky before I ever read what you had written. Why did I think this? Experience. That having been said, the only thing that gave me pause was its size. It is a very nice fingerling for June, but it might be one of the larger ones in the batch.
