In my original pic you'll see that's exactly where that snake was! I just happened to see it because I'm VERY watchful of where I'm walking when I'm in NC Pa. I keep telling myself that because of the airspace between my hip boots and my leg, that a bite won't actually make it to my leg. I'm thinking the boot will take the bulk of the bite? Like I mentioned, they don't always rattle, that's the scary thing.
