

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : Fish ID Mike; anyone?

Re: Fish ID Mike; anyone?

Author: : FarmerDave

Date: : 2013/6/10 8:36:41

URL:

Quote:

tomgamber wrote:

The top of the three warmouth pics is what I remember them looking like. Notice the purplish sides. Found them in a pond just north of Pymatuning lake. crystal lake or something like that. We targeted them as part of a statistics class I had. The prof was a TU president in the Conneaut (sp) area.

Tom, I think I know that "lake." However, I think that is the name of the trailer park. The lake is actually called mud lake. 😊

Sorry, but I always found the name of that trailer park to be amusing.

link

No doubt there are lots of warmouth in that lake, but I never fished it.

It's actually east of Pymatuning Lake but feeds the norther part so you are close enough. I always wanted to hit the part north of there by canoe along the old canal system. I've walked up in there along the tracks quite a ways in the winter just to check it out. Popular duck hunting spot I think. It looks like awesome bass water if the mosquitoes don't carry you away first.