

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : It's snake time!

Re: It's snake time!

Author: : wildtrout2

Date: : 2013/6/11 8:46:18

URL:

Quote:

k-bob wrote:

I definitely dont assume a timber in some cover will rattle or move if you happen to get near one.

Exactly Bob. The one I saw last Sat was just laying there coiled up, sleeping I believe, because when I walked up on him in the high grasss and weeds he didn't even turn to look at me. It wasn't until I touched him with the tip of my rod (let's not go there again lol) that he even resembled being alive. He then started to rattle. I took pics of him and left him alone.