That brown in the picture was all him. I pointed out the lie. He casted, mended, hooked and landed it all by himself.

We have not graduated tp dry flies yet. Once he gets better at casting, fighting fish, knot tying and understanding how to get a good drift...we're going to take it up top. I think he'll be ready after another 2 trips. All he talks about is steelhead and the trout he caught on the D. I think one trip to the salmon river in mid December should cure him of steelhead fever. LMAO. Just hope we don't lose any fingers to frostbite.
