

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : The "Troutiest" of rods?

Re: The "Troutiest" of rods?

Author: : springer1

Date: : 2013/6/12 18:23:43

URL:

Quote:

Fiberglass has its own distinct form of idiocy, which is directly inverse to what's happening with graphite.

There, people are so obsessed with having the slowest rod on the planet, they will consistently demand that rods be overlined so as they load as deeply as possible.

LoL. What newer fiberglass brands are you referencing? That's not a rhetorical question, I'm really interested in which one(s) you would use as examples.

The fiberglass rods I use are not over-lined, and while not fast action, are hardly noodles, rather moderate you know, the type action that the Madison Avenue crowd says is only for beginners 😊