

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : SE PA SMB

Re: SE PA SMB

Author: : jrmyln

Date: : 2013/6/14 12:00:23

URL:

Quote:

sandfly wrote:

theres your answer on the delaware, stripers. they are the native to the river and are just taking back what was theirs in the past. A 20+ in. striper will eat smb along with all the other fish in the river. They are the dominant predator.

I'm with you on the natives taking back what was theirs but I don't think eating them is the reason for the decline. I've snorkeled just outside a small trib that dumps cold water into the river. I witnessed 30"+ stripers eating anything that came into their path including smb and RT.

Not sure about water quality either as I've caught many trout including ST well below "trout waters".