Well said Patrick. And I too fish tons of other streams, just about all of them a LOT more than this one.

And it's not like the creek isn't already well known, because it is. It's been talked about a good bunch by others on this forum.

Funny, I came across a guy(who wasn't fishing) on the stream before and asked if I was catching brookies or browns. I told him as far as I know there are no brookies in this creek, it's all browns. He said there's lots of brookies in there. I just went my merry way catching browns. I also know of a guide who grew up on that creek(same guy?), hmmm. Might have to ask him about the brookies.

Anyways, to sum up the thread, streams change 😊
