Patrick, you obviously haven't read the spawning bows thread. Stocked trout can't reproduce and establish populations. There must have been browns there since the 20's or a WBT pop in the watershed that moved into that stream. }TIC{

Yea, stayed out of that insanity. I was not about to inject my 3 different degrees in biology into an argument made from Wikipedia articles 😊

I have this 93 y/o patient named Ben. Ben is a retired psychiatrist. He taught me one of life's greatest lessons. Here's what he said:

"You are wasting your time speaking rationally to someone who is being irrational. No matter how true your rational statements are, they don't live in that world and you are wasting your breath. You are better speaking to them later when they come back to their senses."
