update... we didn't catch brookies in the stream in HD's first five pictures at start of thread. perhaps because so much of the stream's headwaters is swamp, and the water temps get too high. fished the next stream south, with less swamp input, and caught a few brookies. map of both streams below, also pic of lower stream. both streams in state forest.

I'll watch to for "too much swampy business" in headwaters of possible brookie streams in the future.
