

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : 8'6" vs. 9' 5 weights...

Re: 8'6" vs. 9' 5 weights...

Author: : Big-Bass

Date: : 2013/6/18 9:51:07

URL:

The S4 is a great rod but up close, I think I have a hard time gently dropping a dry on the surface. The LL Bean rod is a little short for bigger water so I basically want a rod for 75% dries and 25% nymphs/streamers IF needed. Do I get another 5 or take the suggestion for a 6? Or drop down to a longer 4? I purchased a 9' 4 weight Redington Link that has already been returned because I found it sort of lifeless. Thanks for your suggestions and sorry for my own confusion...