I am coming as a newb. I realize this list might be too long, but some things I am interested in learning about more: mending, finding and identifying bugs, reading water more effectively than I do now. I'm sure once someone who knows anything watches me for 2 minutes they will cry, hide, and try to pawn me off. Or instantly have a list of 75 things I can do better.

No problem, look forward to meeting you. I'll make sure you spend time with several people, this way we can spread the pain. Just kidding.

Just remember none of us came out of the womb as knowing anything about this love of ours, we were all where you are once!
