In the past I use to line the reel with the flyline first then tie on the backing an wind till it about 1/8 " from the rim of the spool., then I would pull all the line off in a straight line at a local park and tie the Arbor knot to the Spool Arbor, and place a phone book or two on the backing an start winding my backing on.

I also use the same method, except I use the backyard or even all of the rooms of the house in the winter (not a straight line in that case). Well described by Lonewolve.
